Technology is a huge part of today's society and is ever changing. In my own life I use technology of some kind every day. For instance I use a cell phone or regular phone to keep in touch with my parents and friends also I use my cell phone as a calendar for school warning me of assignments and upcoming events. I also have an mp3 player which I listen to while I do work. Even the computer I am writing on which is up to date will be outdated in a year or two. There are better technologies being created for schools daily. For instance a smart board which we can interact with are installed in almost every classroom. What once was a society which depended on paper and a pencil now types almost everything if they have access to a computer. Messages such as e-mail and text can be received in seconds. Technology will continue to grow too. I see new technology becoming available which will help cure diseases. Also, communication devices will become more advanced and allow presidents of other countries to communicate more easily and cut back on tensions. Technology will become available which will allow transportation to become faster and more efficient.
