

The technology I use today is that of a computer, my cell-phone, a car to get around, and my ipod.. The computer helps me get the information I need for my classes and to keep up with the news. I also use it to keep in touch with friends like on Facebook and to read my mail on yahoo. My cell-phone comes in handy when I'm stranded or I need help I will use it. I also use it when I'm coming home on sports or other extracurricular activities so tell my family that I'm back or when I arrive to the destination. Sometimes I text my friends if I'm not in the mood to call them or they are busy that I know of so they can text me when they can. I just drive a car to get around when I need to be somewhere but other then that I don't really use it. I listen to my ipod constantly because music is awesome and I don't know what else to use it for.

The ways technology will improve is that everything will get thinner and smaller. Maybe get smarter and do a lot more. To my opinion the technology will improve our lives but at the same time make us more lazy because we have more technical things to do things for us. I'm not much of a technology person but it will help us in times of need. Cars will just get faster and get us places faster but also could be more dangerous. Ipod will be old school soon because they will find other things to play music but it will be smaller and easier to loose. So technology will help us but at the same time bring us down. So I am against the technology getting better for I won't use it then.
